July Meeting Reminder

28th July 2015

Gill Stannard

“Supervision, mentoring and networking: how collaboration grows your business, clinical skills and confidence”

In this interactive session, Gill Stannard a naturopath/herbalist with more than 24 years of experience, explores different perspectives on growing a successful practice in a competitive market and shares some of her secrets to help increase your clinical confidence and grow your business.

Bring an enquiring mind and a question you'd like to share.

Gill Stannard

Gill graduated from the Southern School of Natural Therapies in 1991. She ran a successful multidisciplinary clinic in the Melbourne CBD for 23 years and now works with clients around the world, from her new home in Sydney.

As a senior lecturer in Herbal Medicine at SSNT, Gill noticed graduates often lacked the support they needed in practice after completing their degree. She began running practitioner support groups in 1997 and has been offering professional supervision and mentoring ever since.

Gill is passionate about supporting emerging and experienced practitioners in all aspects of small business, media and clinical skills, through individual and group professional supervision. She is a Fellow of the NHAa and one of only four supervisors approved by the association.
